

Vida
by Maria De La Paz

Life...

what a long way to go, yet how short it is...

It's a romantic story about memories from yesterday,
the realm warm of today...

the hope for tomorrow and the days to come...

It is a romantic story written each day within the souls of people...

... my soul, your soul, the souls of those who can smile
or those who have to suffer...

A sigh, perhaps many...

We wish the power of love to overcome dramas, sad episodes, and to inspire every step we take...

...to transform our paths and to bring us peace...

The peace to understand life is perfect just the way it is,
and we have been given a world to live and share
respect and to be passionate about each other...

A place to share life and romantic stories, to feel the perfection of God creation and its silent peace...
